TAYLOR IS SUPERB

Famous Son of Tennessee
Delights Louisa Audience.

Not a Dull Moment During the Entire Evening Spent With "The Fiddle and the Bow."

The finest audience in point of size, culture and appearance that ever greeted any man in the city of Louisa welcomed Governor Robert Taylor, of Tennessee, in the big auditorium of the college building last Saturday evening. The occasion was the appearance of the distinguished gentleman to give his famous lecture, "The Fiddle and the Bow," something which had filled us with pleasurable anticipation for many weeks, and it affords the News great satisfaction to say that our most sanguine hopes blossomed into most delightful fruition on that most delightful evening. Much had been written and said of the charm of "Bob" Taylor as a lecturer. He is all the good that has been said of him, and no word spoken or line written of him can, to use a hackneyed phrase, do the subject justice.

It very naturally required two introductions to get Governor Taylor before his audience. Mr. John Langley, of Pikeville, and member of Congress from the 10th Kentucky District, had come to Louisa with his distinguished relation, the entertainer of the evening. It was through the influence of Mr. Langley that the Governor had come to deliver the lecture for the benefit of the college. President Byington and Mr. Langley are intimate friends, and so, in a few fitting words Prof. Byington told of Mr. Langley's efforts in our behalf and introduced him to the waiting multitude. Mr. Langley said he knew that the people had come to listen to Governor Taylor, and would act accordingly. He had, he remarked, introduced the lecturer at Pikeville as "Fiddling Bob Taylor." The Governor objected to this, because he had not played a fiddle in twenty-five years. He didn't please him any better at Pikeville, so he would make his introduction simple and plain to the people tonight. What Mr. Langley said was sufficient and to the point, for when Fiddling Bob Taylor, Governor Robert Taylor and United States Senator Taylor rose he beamed with satisfaction and was received with loud and continued applause. Before beginning his lecture proper the Governor spoke of our college and the ability, industry and fitness of Prof. Byington. What he said must have met the approval of the audience that "magnificent audience," as he called it — for what the lecturer said in this connection was loudly applauded, and the declaration that because of the Professor's large family he should receive a pension, and the regretful declaration that it seemed to him that the Democrats had his families of girls, while the off-spring Republicans were all boys and voters, caused great laughter. The Governor said Mr. Langley was a pretty good fellow, too, the only bad thing about him being his politics, but he wouldn't say much on that score, as he (the Governor) had a brother who was afflicted with the same disease. Governor Taylor opened his casket of gems by showing to his eager listeners a beautiful word painting of the spot where he first opened his eyes upon the world, and from that moment to the close of his eloquent appeal to the young men and women to appreciate and use the splendid opportunities offered them by our college, the inimitable man poured into our willing ears such a pure, sparkling stream of beautiful imagery, delightful verbal painting, tender, sentiment, delicious humor and mirthful story as never before entranced a Louisa audience.

What did you like best? Place before our eyes a collection of rarest jewels, "gems of purest ray serene," and say, "Which is the most beautiful." One answer is as difficult as the other. He who gives even a verbatim report of this famous lecture of Tennessee's distinguished son fails utterly to convey to the mind of the mere reader an adequate idea of its wonderful beauty. One must hear the rich melodious voice, must see the expressive gesture, must catch the twinkle of the eyes and see the play of the mobile features, to know just what an attractive speaker Bob Taylor is. Apropos of his voice, what a revelation it was to most of us to hear him so fitly emphasize a sentiment or a story with a verse or two of an appropriate song! His voice, burdened as it was with a cold, was mellow, deep and sweet, and it most charmingly added finish to what it so well illustrated. The rollicking strains of "There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight," the mellow tones of the Southern black "mammy," and the heart-notes of "Home, Sweet Home" came from beneath that grizzled mustache with equal ease and sweetness. Our watches said that the time occupied in the delivery of this matchless lecture was long, but our delighted senses said, "My, I didn't think it was half that long!" And we went home to listen in our pleasant dreams to the music of Bob Taylor's bird and bug orchestra and to see in our visions pictures of the sweetest and brightest things in this beautiful old world.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Young Wife Mistaken for Burglar and is Shot by Husband.

A most lamentable and unfortunate accident occurred near this place early last Friday morning, whereby a most excellent young wife and mother very nearly lost her life. Between one and two o'clock Mrs. Laban T. Wallace who, with her husband, resides on the John B. Spencer farm about a couple of miles from Louisa on the Smoky Valley road, was awakened by a noise in the front yard of their home. Without waking her husband who, with their young babe occupied the bed with her, she arose and went to the window and pulled the curtain to one side and looked out. Thinking she saw some one, she quietly went back to the bed and put her hand on her husband's face to arouse him and whispered to him that somebody was trying to get in. She then went back to the window and stood in a stooping posture, looking out. Just then Labbe seemed to become conscious of what his wife had told him. The slight waving of the window curtain and the uncertain light outside made him think a burglar was really trying to force an entrance. He hastily put out a hand which touched the baby. Thinking this was his wife he seized a carbine which was in a rack at the head of the bed, pumped a ball into it from the magazine and fired. "Oh, Labbe, you've hit me!" and for the first time he realized the awful fact that the supposed intruder was his wife. She had sunk to her knees, the blood gushing from a ghastly wound. Her husband rushed to her and grasped her in his arms and tried to stop the flow of blood, at the same time crying loudly for help. Help speedily arrived and a messenger was dispatched to Louisa for surgical aid. Dr. A. W. Bromley responded and rendered the proper aid. The ball, a chunk of lead as big as your thumb, had entered the left shoulder blade not far from the point and passed upward, coming out just above the collar bone. The shock and hemorrhage were great, and for awhile things looked dark for the unfortunate woman, but she is resting and sleeping well, is cheerful and unless some unforeseen trouble or complications ensue she will recover.

Mrs. Wallace's friends sincerely wish that such may be the result.

Science and Mathematics.

Allen C. Davis, a graduate of the K. N. C., has been appointed teacher of science and mathematics in the high school at Williamson, W. Va. K. N. C. graduates have no trouble to secure good positions.

K. N. C. Opening.

The 1910-11 term of the K. N. C. began Monday with an unusually large attendance. There were about 30 pupils who had come for the first time, and each day witnesses the enrollment of scholars, new and old. Entire families are moving into Louisa for the sole purpose of giving their children the benefit of our splendid college. With some of those families three, four, sometimes more young men and women come as boarders and will enter the K. N. C. Every department of the school is hard at work, conducted by the best men and women procurable. Everything is running smoothly and harmoniously, and a most successful year is safely predicted. All who expect to enter should do so at once. There is nothing to be gained, but much to be lost by delay.

The Commercial course is receiving more attention than ever before. A full business training may now be had here, as well as in any of the well known schools. Prof. J. G. Styer, of Nashville, Tenn., has been added to the list of teachers in the department.

O'Brien-Weeks.

Miss Janet O'Brien, of this city, and Mr. Addison J. Weeks, of Cleveland, O., were married at the bride's residence at noon Wednesday by the Rev. O. F. Williams, of Russell, Ky. Mr. and Mrs. Weeks took the afternoon N. and W. train for the home of the groom, followed by the best wishes of many relatives and hosts of friends.

The wedding was a very quiet one, its advent having been unknown except to the bride's immediate family and relatives. Mrs. Weeks is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. J. H. O'Brien, and is a very handsome and popular young woman. She possesses a cultivated mind, having stood high in scholarship and ranked among the foremost of the Louisa girls who have won distinction as teachers. She is a bright, aimable woman and Mr. Weeks is to be congratulated on his choice of a wife.

John A. Bartram Dead.

Capt. John A. Bartram, the old time riverman, died in Lexington on Monday last and was buried on Tuesday at Catlettsburg. For many years he was a very popular steamboat clerk and was known from the head to the mouth of the Big Sandy. He was a fine violinist, and many were the beaux and belles of a former generation who figured in the mazes of the dance to music played by him. Captain Bartram was born near Clifford, this county, and was in his 58th year. He left a widow and three children.

AN INFORMAL RECEPTION

At M. E. Church South Friday Evening to Meet the Bishop.

Bishop Morrison, of the M. E. Church, South, is now at Paintsville and will come to Louisa on Friday of this week. In the evening an informal reception will be held at the church to give the congregation an opportunity to meet the Bishop. The occasion will be entirely informal and the attendance should be large. It has been several years since a Methodist Bishop has visited Louisa.

Bishop Morrison would preach while here except for the fact that he is not in very robust health and is compelled to conserve his strength for the strenuous work of conducting the annual conference at New Martinsville, W. Va., next week.

Rev. Darlington, of Huntington, and Rev. Gosling, of Ashland, will probably be at Louisa with the Bishop.

Sick With Typhoid.

Lindsey Baker, of Kermit, superintendent of education for Mingo county, W. Va., is at Riverview hospital sick with typhoid fever. Accompanied by his wife he came here last week. Mr. Baker formerly lived in Fort Gay. His wife was Miss Tennie Copley.

SUICIDE.

John Rittenbury, of Gallup,
Dies by His Own Hand.

Ill Health and Despondency Supposed to Have Been Responsible for the Rash Act.

On Saturday last John Rittenbury, aged about 50 years, who lived near what is known as the Harden bend, some seven or eight miles South of Louisa, on the C. and O. railroad, committed suicide by cutting his throat from ear to ear. He had been very despondent for several weeks, fearing he would starve to death. A close watch had been kept upon him, as his wife feared he would do himself bodily harm. On the day mentioned he told her he had lost his razor, and asked her to go and look for it as he did not want it to get rusted. She complied with his request, and in her absence he ended his life and in her earthly troubles. When she returned she found her husband lying on the floor, with the blood pouring from the ghastly self-inflicted wound. He had stood before a looking glass and the blood had spurted all over it. The suicide had gone out of the house into the yard as far as a chimney on the end of the building, and back into the room where he fell, a trail of blood plainly showing what he had done.

Acting Coroner J. H. O'Brien went up and held an inquest over the body and rendered a verdict in accordance with the facts. Rittenbury left a widow and several grown children.

Governor Taylor.

This distinguished gentleman, whose lecture is noted elsewhere in this paper, arrived in Louisa last Saturday morning, accompanied by the Hon. John W. Langley. They had quarters at the Hotel Savoy during their stay. Very many of our citizens called upon the Governor and expressed their pleasure in meeting him. He is a genial, companionable man, delighting all who met him with wit and humor and fond of reminiscence. Governor Taylor expressed much pleasure at being here, and respectfully spoke of the great advantages afforded by Louisa as a college town, and hoped that he might return at some day not remote and speak again in a completed college building.

Governor Taylor left Sunday morning en route to Washington.

Elicited High Praise.

An enjoyable feature of the Chautauqua yesterday was Miss Katharine Freese, the vocalist. The committee was fortunate in securing Miss Freese. Her charming personality and intense earnestness fairly captivated her audience. Her selections were received with appreciation. Among them were "Old Folks at Home," "There's a Big Cry Baby in the Moon," "Thy Beaming Eyes," "The Birds Go North Again," and "Abraham's Cradle Song," which seemed to bring out her melodious and fascinating voice, so soft, sweet and clear. The Chautauqua people made no mistake in selecting Miss Freese. Ashland Independent.

Henry Snyder Was Operated Upon.

Henry Snyder, formerly of Louisa, but now of Oklahoma City, was operated upon for appendicitis on Sunday last. He has had the dangerous affection for some time but became stronger. On the date mentioned he was seized with an acute attack and was hurried to a hospital. An hour later the appendix was removed and was found to be gangrenous. The operation was successful and Mr. Snyder's physicians say he will soon be well. His many friends and relatives in this, his home town, earnestly hope for his speedy and entire recovery.

K. M. C. Graduate.

Harry A. Fairchild, a graduate of the Kentucky Normal college, has just received the Democratic nomination for Superintendent of Public Instruction of the great State of Texas. He is a native of Magoffin county and was a member of the K. N. C. class of 1909. Soon after his graduation he went to Texas. It is hardly necessary to say that he has been "going some" since he landed in that big and prosperous State. To have reached the high position he has attained in so short a time certainly speaks well for his ability and hustling qualities. Naturally our college is proud of him. He is away up on a long list of worthy products of this busy institution.

Election Commissioners.

The following is a partial list of the election commissioners for 1910-11. The first named in each county is a republican: Carter, Theobald and W. D. Crawford; Elliott, G. W. Adkins and V. H. Redwine; Floyd, S. C. Ferguson and George P. Archer; Knott, John D. Smith and Jason Ritchie; Johnson, H. S. Howes and E. F. Howes; Martin, M. R. Allen and J. C. Newberry; Magoffin, W. H. May and E. S. Stephens, and Pike, A. F. Childrees and E. B. Stevenson, and Lawrence, W. A. Copley and A. J. Conley.

SEVEN YEARS IN PRISON.

Verdict Against Dr. F. D. Marcum returned Thursday Afternoon.

Just as we go to press the jury has returned a verdict of manslaughter with punishment of seven years in the penitentiary. The verdict was brought in after two hours deliberation.

The grand jury made its final report Saturday and was discharged. It had examined nearly 200 witnesses and returned 101 indictments, embracing offenses ranging from a plain breach of the peace to murder. Among the indictments is one against Tinker Pigg for burglary, one against "Fiddle-hip" William Jarrell for the larceny of a wagon, and one against John Dameron for the murder of Victor Caperton. The Jarrell and Pigg cases will be called as soon as reached.

The most important case tried during the present term was that of the Commonwealth against Dr. F. D. Marcum, charged with the killing of John Whittaker on a C. and O. train near Zella, this county, on September 27th, 1908. This was the second trial of the case, the jury having failed to agree on the former occasion. The hearing began on Thursday afternoon of last week and closed Tuesday afternoon, when the argument began. The prosecution is represented by Commonwealth's Attorney John W. Waugh, A. Floyd Byrd, of Winchester, Ky., John Hopkins, of Prestonsburg, and Calloway Howard, of Magoffin county. The defendant is represented by his father, Judge W. W. Marcum, of Ceredo, W. Va.; his uncle, John S. Marcum, of Huntington, and nearly the entire local bar. Judge R. T. Burns opened the argument for the defense and was followed by Mr. Hopkins for the Commonwealth. He was followed by M. S. Burns, for the defendant, he by Mr. Byrd, he by John S. Marcum, and Prosecutor Waugh closed the argument. As might be expected from the character and reputation of the lawyers engaged the case has been splendidly handled. The oratorical and forensic ability of counsel attracted large crowds to hear the argument, and they were amply repaid for their time and patience.

The argument closed at noon and the jury now has the case.

Pleasantly Surprised.

Prestonsburg, Ky. — The esteem in which our townsman, Mr. Roscoe Murray is held by his students in Prestonsburg was thoroughly manifested Tuesday night when after he had retired for the night and was just crossing over into dreamland, "Suddenly he heard a tapping as of someone gently rapping, rapping at his chamber door." 'Twas some late visitors, many in number, who kept up the tapping until their teacher turned the key and let the door swing open; when suddenly the room filled with a jolly crowd of students bearing apples, oranges and fine delicatessans of all descriptions entirely too numerous to mention.

It is needless to say Mr. Murray is rich in friends among the young people for he always has a host of them wherever his lot is cast, and to say that he is thoroughly appreciative of their friendship is but mildly stating the fact.

The party was after the order of an old fashioned "pound party." The object being the surprise which was indeed a thorough one.

After a very pleasant evening the guests departed all feeling better for having been present.

A Friend.

May Elect a Successor.

Judge W. A. Berry, of Paducah, and Judge J. A. Donaldson in an opinion sent to Henry R. Prewitt, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, state that the election of a successor to Prof. J. G. Crabbe, who resigned as Superintendent of Public Instruction, can be held this fall under their interpretation of the State Constitution.

It is said that Crabbe did not resign until he, as did many others, thought it too late to hold an election for his successor, well knowing that a Democrat would be chosen.

Chairman Henry R. Prewitt, of the Democratic State Central and calls for the meetings of both committees at Lexington on September 10, to take action regarding the coming campaign and the status of the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction with regard to whether a vacancy exists to be filled at the November election.

Camp Meeting.

The camp meeting at Fountain Park began Saturday last and will close Sunday night. On last Sunday the attendance was quite large and much interest was manifested. The services were interesting, the preaching and singing being very good. The accommodations provided for all who attend are excellent. The weather has not been favorable and continues forbidding.

KNOCKED OFF OF TRAIN.

Deadhead Makes Impudent Reply to Trainman and Gets Clubbed.

A man named Vance, 23 years old, was badly hurt Tuesday morning by being knocked off a fast-running freight train near Saltpeter, on the N. and W. He had jumped the train at Xenia, O., and was trying to make his way to Welch to work in the mines at that place. He was riding on the tender, or on a car very near the engine, and his presence was known to the fireman. When the train was near Saltpeter the latter asked Vance to pull down some coal, and Vance told him to "go to hell." The fireman told him to wait awhile, and seizing his pick he struck Vance with it, knocking him from the car to the ground. The train, a time freight, sped away without stopping to see how badly the man was hurt. Vance was carried to Fort Gay and Dr. Bromley, the local N. and W. surgeon, was called to attend him. He found a gash about five inches long in the man's head, baring the skull, and a dislocation of the left hip. The scalp wound was dressed and the dislocation reduced and the man sent to the company's hospital at Portsmouth. Vance is a well-appearing young fellow and has relatives living on Twelve Pole, W. Va.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the best of all medicines for the cure of diseases, disorders and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is the only preparation of its kind devised by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in the diseases of women.

It is a safe medicine in any condition of the system. THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol and no injurious habit-forming drugs and which creates no craving for such stimulants.

THE ONE REMEDY so good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on each outside bottle-wrapper and attest to the truthfulness of the same under oath.

It is sold by medicine dealers everywhere, and any dealer who hasn't it can get it. Don't take a substitute of unknown composition for this medicine of known composition. No counterfeit is as good as the genuine and the druggist who says something else is "just as good as Dr. Pierce's" is either mistaken or is trying to deceive you for his own selfish benefit. Such a man is not to be trusted. He is trifling with your most priceless possession—your health—may be your life itself. See that you get what you ask for.

On Diamonds

We Save You Money.

We do not carry diamonds in stock because this would not pay in a town of this size, but we can do much better for customers by making special orders for exactly what they want. Dealers who carry the goods in stock necessarily have a considerable amount of capital tied up all the time and they must have larger profits to justify this outlay. We want only a slight profit, enough to pay for the time and trouble involved. Having been in the jewelry business for nearly twenty years we know where to buy the most reliable goods for the least money possible, and this is a most important point. We have an arrangement to get as many stones as you desire to select from.

We will save you from $15 to $25 (and sometimes more) on each $100 invested in a diamond.

We guarantee qualities to be exactly as represented, and behind our guarantee is that of the largest diamond cutters in America.

Without boasting about it we have sold a considerable number of very satisfactory diamonds in this way—the sensible and economical way.

PLEASANT CITY.

Death visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Spencer, August 15 and took from them their darling baby, Delmar J. He was the light and joy of the home. Oh how dear the parents loved their darling baby, but Jesus loved it more, and we said to the bereaved parents: Weep not for Delmar, he is not dead, but asleep in the arms of Jesus. He was too precious a flower to bloom on earth. He was budding on earth, but will blossom in Heaven. The remains were laid to rest in the Harvey cemetery to await the resurrection morning.

A QUARTER OF A CENTURY.

Big Sandy News Has Passed This Mark
Without Missing an Issue.

With its issue of Friday, August 26, the Big Sandy News rounded out the 25th year of its existence, celebrating its Silver Anniversary, by giving to its patrons and readers a clean, comprehensive history of yesterday of what had taken place in brief in the world, in the Union, in the Commonwealth of Kentucky, in Lawrence county, and in this, the town of its nativity. In all the years of its history, the News has not changed its name, its editor, its motto nor its policies. In all these years it has never knowingly made a single misstatement, neither has it published a line of malice or uncharitableness. Its beginning was humble, a small job press, a little type and two boys, 16 years of age. This was the outfit, in meager quarters. It has grown to see better days. A fine cylinder news press and a battery of job presses take the place of the initial press, a linotype does the work of composition, a folder does what hands once did, the whole machinery driven by the power of a gas engine. The little room in which the editor and proprietor labored and the press creaked and ground has been supplanted by commodious quarters comprising nearly all of a large two-story concrete building, and its circulation and business have grown and thrived with the years.

To write these things is easy, but to attain the position which justifies the utterance was no easy work. No better proof is needed as to the difficult task of establishing a country newspaper than the fact that during the quarter of a century just closed thirteen other newspapers have risen in Louisa, struggled for periods more or less brief, then passed into oblivion. Two papers had failed here previous to the birth of the News, making a total of fifteen futile efforts in this line, and bringing the ratio very close to the old familiar 16 to 1.

Among other things Louisa may now boast of is the best country printing plant in Kentucky. The was the first weekly newspaper in the State to install a linotype and was one of fifteen establishments in the United States selected by the manufacturers for placing on trial a type setting machine of a new design.

The News could not have reached its present position without the support of the people. Its editor has ever aimed to make a paper which would be read and which would interest and help them. That it has succeeded it has no doubt. It has been loyally supported, and for this support the editor is sincerely thankful.

The editor of the News will spare neither time nor effort to maintain the reputation of the paper for news and reliability for another quarter of a century, well knowing that great labor is the price of excellence. He desires and expects to receive in return for his labors the continued support of the people for whose information and benefit the Big Sandy News is published.

I am only too pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers in Louisa."

Mrs. Holley gave the above testimonial in January, 1908, and confirmed it on June 21, 1909, saying: "Since I recommended Doan's Kidney Pills last year, I have had no serious return attack of kidney trouble. Any slight disorder, caused by my kidneys, has quickly given way to Doan's Kidney Pills."

Our people feel very grateful to Congressman Langley for the interest he has taken in our new college and for getting Senator Taylor to come to the Sandy Valley. As the Senator said in opening his address here the only bad thing about Langley is his politics. Whatever may be said on that score, one thing is certain and that is that he is a loyal Big Sandian and always hustling for the promotion of the interests of the Valley and its people, to which end he has accomplished a great deal since he has been in Congress. We would like to see the Tenth represented by a good Democrat, but if the Democrats up there expect to defeat him they had better get busy.

None of the trainmen was injured, but the damage to the company was considerable.

The following is a verbatim copy of a notice which was posted in a public place in Pikeville recently: To All Whom it may Concern:

You will take notice that I am the owner of a certain wife, Mrs. Nelson Bentley, and that I forbid anybody to keep her about their house under the penalty of being sued. She is a young woman and when last heard of was going up Island Creek. Her dress is the color of green peas and her hat is dyed with diamond dye and trimmed in chicken feathers. A NEW APOSTOLATE.

Address Delivered Before the Lawrence County S. S. Association by Rev. Wm. Dunn Ryan.

This is truly a most auspicious time; when the busiest of men and women will account it a privilege to take a thorough course of training in order that they may do the Master's work more effectively. This I am told, is the first class to be graduated in the history of Lawrence county. You of the graduating class are pioneers in a great cause. The honor of having completed this course of training will become more evident with the passing years. You are equipped to become a part of Christ's new apostolate to meet the needs of your day as his first followers met the needs of their's.

I am reminded of that sublime scene depicted in the 19th chapter of Matthew, in which a dozen tireless men are listening to the directions of their great leader, and at his reassuring word: "Behold I send you forth," are starting up on a mission the most extraordinary the world had known. It was not lust for gold, nor for power, nor for fame that allured them. It was the compelling personality of Him who sent them forth, coupled with the heart-breaking need of those to whom they went. "Heal the sick, cast out devils, raise the dead, hush the cry of despair," these were their mission. This first apostolate was a result of sympathy with the social need of the day and of a heaven-sent desire to alleviate it. "Jesus saw the multitudes and had compassion on them," this was Matthew's explanation of it. And as this same Jesus is standing in the midst of our modern life, listening to stifled murmurs of suffering, witnessing man's inhumanity to man, shall we not believe that he will create and send forth a new apostolate only on a scale more vast to meet the needs of the day—to deal with things not as they were but as they ARE? And surely the field of activity today is most alluring. It is more inviting, by far to the man of right ambitions that was that into which Peter and John of their associates threw their lives unsparingly. The ideal of almost every nation today is the ideal of peace. It was not so in the ancient time. Virgil reflects the spirit and ideals of his day when he sings of the arms and the men. Homer's inspiration is Achilles' wrath and woes unnumbered. Such themes as these would not find a hearing today. The 20th century has not yet found her great Epic poet, but when he comes he will not sing of arms and of hate, but of peace and of brotherly helpfulness. His heroes will not be blood-stained with battle, but glory-crowned with service. The poet strains we cherish most are adumbrations of this greater epic that is yet to come. Such is Tennyson's "In Memoriam," such is Browning's "Ring and the Book," such is Lowell's "Vision of Sir Launfal," such is Whittier's "Tent on the Beach," such is every poem that really grips the modern heart.

We are getting ready to beat our swords into plow shares—most of us are. The U. S. Senate and a few other belated citizens are not ready yet. But there is hope even for them! The Prince of Peace is mightily exercising his power among the nations of the earth. Our heritage is incalculably rich. Surely the first followers of Jesus would have rejoiced to have seen this day. But, after all, peace makes demands upon our patriotism no less rigorous than does war. It is not so spectacular. Its heroes are more of ten unheralded and uncrowned, but it is more resplendent in glory.

The inventor, the discoverer, the statesman, the lofty genius of literature have laid at our feet the products of their wisdom and toil until we stand bewildered by the magnitude and grandeur of it all. There is danger that we should conclude that there is little more worth striving for that the past has witnessed all the great deeds and victories possible to man. But let us not deceive ourselves. Tomorrow calls for service and heroism of a finer, higher type than has ever been demanded. Prof. Rauschenbusch in his "Christianity and the Social Crisis," pictures the Nineteenth Century entering the vaulted chambers of the Past where the spirits of the dead centuries sit on granite thrones together. When the new corner entered the spirit of the Eighteenth Century spoke for all. "Till thy tale, brother, give us word of the human kind we left to thee."

"I am the spirit of Wonderful Century," said the Nineteenth. "I gave to man the mastery over nature. Discoveries and inventions which lighted the black space of the past like lonely stars, have clustered in a Milky Way of radiance under my rule. One man does by the touch of his hand what a thousand slaves never did. Knowledge has unlocked the mines of wealth and the hoarded wealth of today creates the vaster wealth of tomorrow. Man has escaped the slavery of necessity and is free."

I freed the thoughts of men. They face the facts and they know their knowledge is common to all. They send their whispers under the seas and across the clouds.

I broke the chains of bigotry and despotism. I made men free and equal. Every man feels the worth of his manhood.

I have touched the summit of history. I did for man-kind what none of you did before. They are rich. They are wise. They are free."

The spirits of the dead centuries sat silent with troubled eyes. At last the spirit of the First Century spoke for all. "We all spoke proudly when we came here, in the flush of our deeds and thou more proudly than we all. But as we sit and think of what was before us, and what has come after us, shame and guilt bear down our pride. Your words sound as if the redemption of man had come at last. Tell us, has it come?"

"You have made men rich. Tell us, is man in pain of hunger today and none in fear of hunger tomorrow? Do all children grow up fair of limb and trained for thought and action? Do none die before their time?"

"You have made men wise. Are they wise or cunning? Have they learned to restrain their bodily passions? Have they learned to deal with their fellow beings in justice and love?"

"You have set them free—are there none then who toil for others against their will? Are all men free to do the work they love best?"

"You have made men one. Does none rejoice in the cause that makes the many mourn? Do men no longer spill the blood of men for their ambition and the sweat of men for their greed?"

As the spirit of the Nineteenth Century listened, his head sank to his breast.

"Your shame is already upon me," he said. "My great cities are as your's were. My millions live from hand to mouth. Those who toil longest have least. My human wreckage multiplies. Class faces class in sullen distrust. Give me a seat among you and let me think why it has been so."

The others turned to the spirit of the First Century, your promised redemption is long in coming. "But it will come," he replied.

If you see the mountains of glory in our national life, forget not to reckon also with the valleys of humiliation; for our survey of our field of labor must be an honest survey. Let us rejoice in the fact that our wealth has more than doubled in the last 25 years. Let us rejoice that for every man, woman and child in the United States there is an average of $1,400 per capita. But in the face of this, be not forgetful that ten million persons were applicants for public charity last year, and that seven-eighths of this immense wealth is owned by one-eighth of the people. Rejoice in the fact that on our statute books are more just and humane and righteous laws than have ever been enacted in any country. But raise your voice in protest when you see these laws evaded and violated every day, without punishment.

Rejoice in the fact that we have a great army of able and incorruptible men in positions of public trust. But remember that the unspeakable traitors to be found in Washington, in Albany, in Columbus, in Frankfort, are representatives of the people also, and what is most reprehensible, the people will send many of them back to office, instead of to the penitentiary where they belong.

By its achievements and glories our modern life is appealing to you. By its crying needs it is appealing to all that is heroic in your nature. And if any man doubts the ultimate triumph of righteousness when he looks at modern conditions let him remember who it is that would send us forth, and be reassured.

"Behold, I send you forth," says the son of God. "O can you enter upon your life work with the consciousness that he has sent you forth into his world on a definite errand? There are many kinds of tasks that must be done. And all work that is worth doing is sacred in his sight. Moses saw the commonest shrub in the desert aflame with the presence of God when his eyes beheld it aright. The commonest task is crowned with a halo in the sight of heaven. Michael Angelo sees in the meanest, mud-spattered block of stone the face of an angel and under the hand of this genius the angel imprisoned in the rocks comes forth. Can you see God's halo resting above that freckled faced boy? Can you bring out the latent nobility? Then, you are a greater than Angelo."

There are a good many things it will be helpful for you to know, if you are a successful Sunday school teacher. There are three things you must know. You must know the Book. The diploma you receive tonight are sufficient evidence that you have some grasp of the structure and contents of the Book. You must know the Christ. The fact that you are willing to toil through this course of study without hope of pecuniary gain is evidence of your consecration to Him. But you must know also the pupil.

If you were talking to minnows would you address them as though they were whales? said someone to Samuel Johnson.

Blessed indeed is that teacher who can know the things his pupil knows, besides knowing a few things in addition to them, who can enter so sympathetically in the life of another that no word will be lost. You will lose your hold on your class, says Amos R. Wells, "if each Sunday hour does not begin with you a little above them, and end with them at your level."

But who is He that sends you forth? Centuries old is the question. "Who is this that cometh from Edom, with dyed garments from Bozrah? This that is glorious in his apparel, marching in the greatness of his strength? I that speak in righteousness, mighty to save."

The world had nothing better than a stable door through which to welcome Him. The world cast Him out at the point of a spear. But, in the words of Richter, "he showed himself to be the holiest among the mighty, the mightiest among the holy, who lifted with pierced hands, empires off their hinges and turned the streams of centuries out of their channels and still governs the ages."

He shrank not from days of hardest, humblest toil. He delighted in the little child that nestled in his bosom. He had time to encourage the desolate whom others would not notice. He saw in a dozen unlettered men the nucleus of a worldwide and endless empire. Earth's mighty ones have had their little day and ceased to be but in his presence the mightiest monarch of all the earth stands uncrowned, acknowledging his sovereignty over all. Before him angels prostrate fall.

"Behold I send you forth"—it is the King immortal, invisible, eternal, that says it! Does it not thrill you with a sense of the sublime dignity of your work to feel that He Matthew 21:23-46.—September 4.

"Therefore say I unto you, The Kingdom of God shall be taken from you."

In this Study the Great Teacher in two parables portrays the mistake made by the religionists of his day. The understanding of these parables gives a clearer insight into the cause which led to the rejection of Israel for a time from Divine favor. Incidentally, too, we are to remember that nominal fleshly Israel was a prototype of nominal Christendom. Hence we may look for somewhat similar conditions and dealings now in the "harvest" time of this Christian Age.

To get the force of the Lord's teachings here and everywhere it is necessary to remember that the Jewish people had been promised the Kingdom of God, of which David's Kingdom was a type on a small scale. For centuries they had been expecting a great King, Messiah, whose coming would exalt them and bring them into prominence as God's Kingdom. John the Baptist, when he came to introduce Messiah, told the Jews that unless they would repent and come back, to the extent of their ability, into harmony with God and the Law they need not expect to share in the Messianic Kingdom. Jesus told the people that unless their righteousness should exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, they should in no wise enter into or become members of the long-awaited Kingdom. (Matthew 5:20.) The two parables of this Study illustrate what stood in the way of the majority.

The Jewish people professed to be God's people, willing to do him service. They were treated, not as mere slaves, but, rather, like sons. All were told to go and work in God's vineyard, but they divided into two classes, represented by the two sons in our first parable. One of these sons represented the outwardly religious, pious, who said, Yes, we will serve God. However, they did not really seek the Divine service, but rather the service of their sects and parties and their own personal aims, honor, influence and preferment. The other class of Israelites, represented by the other son of the parable, made no pretense of serving God, and were branded as publicans, sinners, harlots. Nevertheless, when Jesus appeared, when John's message went forth, and afterwards the teachings of Jesus and the Apostles, these same publicans, sinners, harlots, were the ones ready to receive him, while the religious, finding that his message was in conflict with their teachings, repudiated him. Thus one of the charges against Jesus was, "He receiveth publicans and sinners and eateth with them."

The second parable represents God as the owner of a great Vineyard, in all respects well appointed and furnished for his purpose. This Vineyard represents the Jewish nation and the Divine promises made to that people—the Law and all the arrangements of the Law Covenant, for their development. This Vineyard the owner let out to husbandmen, whose duty it was to care for the vines and the fruitage and to render to the owner the results, except a portion which they might keep for themselves. These husbandmen were the prominent religionists, of whom Jesus said, "The scribes and Pharisees sit in Moses' seat." All, therefore, whatsoever they did you observe, that observe and do." (Matt. 23:2, 3.) The owner properly required returns on his property and sent servants to receive his share of the fruitage. But the husbandmen, instead of giving them what was due their Master, abused them by beating, killing and stoning them.

These servants were the prophets of old, sent to Israel. They should have received the kindest treatment and an abundance of fruits of meekness, gentleness, patience, etc., but, instead, they were treated as intruders by the leaders of Israel. Some of them were stoned, some beaten, some murdered, some even asunder. Some wandered about in sheepskins and goatskins and dwelt in dens and caves of the earth, because not appreciated. They were not treated as representatives of the owner of the vineyard. Finally the owner sent his Son, saying, "They will reverence my Son." But these same husbandmen, the religionists of our Lord's day, took counsel to kill him and to seize his inheritance. They somehow got the impression that they could lord it over God's heritage and that anybody reproving them or showing up their hypocrisies or liberating the people from subservience to them, whoever he might be—even the heir—they were at liberty to kill. They crucified him.

What may we presume the owner of that vineyard would do to those wicked husbandmen who, forgetting the ownership of the vineyard, were using it as their own, mistreating his servants and crucifying his Son? The Great Teacher put the question to his hearers, and the answer promptly came that the owner would destroy those wicked men and let out his Vineyard to others who would render him its fruitage.

This is just what happened. The scribes and Pharisees and Doctors of the Law who were using God's promises and blessings and their opportunities selfishly and in disregard of the Almighty—these were dispossessed. Their government was destroyed and Divine favor and privileges as God's mouthpieces, which they once enjoyed, were taken from them and given to others—to the Apostles and their associates, during this Gospel Age.

However, as fleshly Israel was a type or picture of nominal Spiritual Israel, we may not have to look far to find a very similar condition of things today. Today also we see some high in official position as representatives of God and his Word using their positions to entrench themselves, to hold power over the people, to carry out their own schemes. These are inclined to speak harshly, yea, to "murder" any who come amongst them meekly, humbly, in the name of the Lord. They do not literally kill them nor "shoot them full of arrows," but they do behold them in the sense of ostracism. And they do shoot out at them the arrows of bitter words, slanders, etc.

What will the Husbandman do with such servants? The answer is again that the opportunities which they have enjoyed will be taken away from them. Think God that the next step in the programme will be that the King's Son and all of the misused servants associated with him will constitute the new "Kingdom of God's dear Son" "under the whole heavens." Matters will be no longer entrusted to any but the tried, proven, faithful.

Jesus, the rejected, "is become the chief corner-stone" of the great Temple of God, which is the Church. As the privilege of being God's embryonic Kingdom was taken from the Jews and given to Christ and the Church, so presently his embryonic Kingdom will be taken from earth entirely—his faithful will be received to the heavenly plane and power and great glory.

Whoever stumbled over Jesus suffered loss in the sense of being broken, but not beyond possibility of repair. "But upon whomsoever this stone (Messiah) shall fall, it will grind him to powder" in the Second Death.—Matt. 21:44.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOIN THE HOME CIRCLE.

Boys, Don't.

Don't forget that you are to be men and husbands.

Don't smoke in the presence of ladies. It is never respectful.

Don't measure your respect to a person by the clothes he wears.

Don't try to make your fortune by easier means than hard work.

Don't speak carelessly of a lady's character. It is her only anchor.

Don't forget that the best and greatest man that ever walked the earth was a boy.

Don't haunt the lady of your choice at a ball, party or picnic. She has certain civilities to pay elsewhere.

Don't fix your stare on the fair ones who pass along the streets. To stare at anyone is not manly at all.

Don't neglect your business. Take pains to do your work well. Good workmen are always in demand.

Don't sneer at the opinions of others. You may learn wisdom from those far less pretentious than yourself.

Don't swear. It is not necessary and does no good. It is neither wise, manly nor polite, nor agreeable to others.

Don't grow up to be a soured old bachelor, when there are so many true and lovely girls that will make such excellent wives.

Don't flirt with a young lady to whom you are a perfect stranger. It looks most ridiculous; and you may get thrashed for it some day.

Don't unnecessarily make enemies. The good will of a dog is better than his ill will. But don't cripple your independence and your individuality to please friends.

Keep up with the wagon. Change your old views and habits for new and better ones when you find them and be always on the lookout for them.

How fortunate it is that there is not a jealous person among our large family of readers. We do not know of one; do you? Such being the case we can severely censure these jealous people that are to be found in most all other communities. The first boy ever born was jealous. If you remember Cain took a rough stick and killed his brother Abel because he was jealous. The sacrifice of Abel had been accepted while Cain's was rejected. Jealousy is simply a grief we experience on account of the superiority of others. Their superiority in talent, wealth, beauty, virtue or social or political recognition. It is the shadow of other people's success which clouds our lives. It is the thunder of our neighbor's popularity which sours the milk of human kindness in us. It is the father and mother of half the woes and crimes of the human race.

When you hear a man or woman abused, drive in on the defendant's side. Watch for excellences in others rather than for defects, morning glories instead of night shades. If some one is more beautiful than you, thank God that you have not so many perils of vanity to contend with. If some one has more wealth than you, thank God that you have not so great a stewardship to answer for. If some one gets a higher office in church or state you can thank God there are not so many to wish for hastening of your obsequies. If you are assailed by jealousy take it as a compliment, for people are never jealous of a failure. Substitute for jealousy an elevating emulation. Seeing others industrious let us work more hours. Life is short at the longest let it all be filled up with helpfulness for others work and sympathy for each other's misfortunes, and our arms full of white mantles to cover up the mistakes and failures of others. Surely this world is large enough for you all your rivals. God has given you a work to do. Go ahead and do it. Mind your own business. In all circles, in all kinds of business, in all professions there is room for straightforward successes.

What to Teach Girls.

Teach her that 100 cents make a dollar.

Teach her to arrange the parlor and library.

Teach her to say "No" and mean it or "Yes" and stick to it.

Teach her how to wear a calico dress and to wear it like a queen.

Teach her how to sew on buttons, darn stockings and mend gloves.

Teach her to dress for health and comfort as well as appearance.

Teach her to cultivate flowers and to keep the kitchen garden.

Teach her to make the neatest room in the house.

Teach her to have nothing to do with intemperate or dissolute young men.

Teach her that tight lacing is unhealthy, as well as injurious to health.

Teach her to regard the morals and habits and not money in selecting her associates.

Teach her to observe the old rule, "A place for everything and everything in its place."

Teach her that music, drawing and painting are real accomplishments in the home and are not to be neglected if there be time and money for their use.

Teach her the important truth, "That the more she lives with in her income the more she will save and the further she will get away from the poor-house."

Teach her that a good, steady, hard-working mechanic, farmer, clerk, or teacher without a cent, is worth more than forty loafers, or non-producers in broadcloth.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

room for you. It may be more poetical to hitch your wagon to a star; but you are surer to arrive at some place in particular, if you hitch yourself to a fire-wagon. You do not need to be reminded that opportunities are usually not found but made, and that a successful career is not a bequest but a conquest.

Mr. Benjamin Kidd in "Social Evolution," says society approaches its goal only as men lose themselves in the service of others. Science joins its voice with that of Holy Writ in declaring that sacrifice is at the base of all progress and blessedness. The path of progress is strewn with the wreckage of those who thought to buy the crown of success too cheaply and refused to throw themselves into the struggle.

It fell on a day when God was building his America that the beasts of the fields and the birds of the air and the fishes of the sea were all assembled before the Lord, and the Lord said, "Who will build for me a barrier about the coast of Florida, that the whelming way I may not destroy it. And the beasts of the field and the birds of the sea said, 'We will build it.' So the beasts brought great rocks and logs of wood and the birds wove cunningly with their bills, and the fishes covered all with sand and with slime. But presently Old Ocean rose in his might and tossed their great labor, with huge scorn, away. And when next they were gathered before the Lord they kept silence for very shame. But out of this silence there arose a tiny voice, it was the voice of the coral. And the corals said, 'We will go up,' and the Lord said, 'Go up and prosper, for I have delivered it into your hand.' And so the reefs have stood through the ages. The beasts and the fishes and the birds were mighty, but they gave the labor of their hands alone. The corals were tiny, but they gave themselves."

If you are willing to pay this price the future unfolds before you with infinite possibilities of joy and glory unspeakable. As of old the Master stands summoning men and women to throw their best into the task of hushing the world's cry of anguish. Blessed indeed is it even to have started in this way of progress and to complete it is joy and peace.

Joaquin Miller sees in the hardy pioneer who fared forth on an unknown sea with confidence in the God above that union of faith and progress which you may well make your own. And the highest wish I might have for you is expressed in his lines:

William Loch, Jr., collector of the port of New York, declared that within a short time the United States customs service will undergo the greatest shake-up in history.

Failed in Health

"My mother died six years ago," writes Miss Ruth Ward, of Jerseyville, Ill., "and left me to care for six children. I had never been strong; and this, with the shock of her death, was too much for me.

"I failed in health. I was tired all the time and did not want to go anywhere, nor care for company. I had the headache all the time and such bearing-down pains.

"A very dear friend advised me to take Cardui, as it had done her so much good, so I commenced to use it and now I am in good health."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Women's pains are relieved or prevented and women's strength is quickly restored, by Cardui, the woman's tonic. You yourself know best if you need it, or not.

If you do need it, do not delay, but commence to use it at once. Every day of delay, only lets you slide further down the hill.

Don't wait, then, but begin to take Cardui today, for its use, no matter how prolonged, cannot harm you and will surely do you good.
